WORK EXPERIENCE

As a front-end developer co-head for the Sparsh cultural tech fest website, I gained valuable experience in various aspects of web development. My responsibilities included collaborating with the design team to create a visually appealing user interface and ensuring the website was responsive across all devices.

My experience as a front-end developer co-head for the Sparsh cultural tech fest website has given me a solid foundation in web development and project management. I am confident that the skills I have gained will make me a valuable asset to any team.
